Reaction split on athletics

By Robyn Schanzenbach
Montana Kaimin Reporter

A poll taken by the Montana Kaimin yesterday indicates that student reaction is split concerning a resolution proposed by Central Board delegate Matt Tennis to eliminate student funding of intercollegiate athletics.

The motion, which was introduced last week by off-campus delegate Matt Tennis, sophomore in general studies, was tabled in order to get student opinion on it, according to Tennis.

Sixteen of the 20 CB delegates were polled and four could not be reached. Of the 16 questioned, eight said student feedback had been generally unfavorable and four delegates said they had spoken to many students who supported the resolution. Two delegates said they had observed no student reaction, and two said they thought the student body was split on the resolution.

Tennis said he has received wide support. He said he talked to "several hundred" students, and about five to one favored the resolution.

Tennis said that if many students had strongly opposed the motion, he would have considered writing a "compromise resolution." Because the support was so "overwhelming," Tennis said, he will back the original resolution.

On-campus delegates Carrie Hahn, freshman in journalism, and John Nockleby, freshman in political science, and off-campus delegate Conrad Yunker, junior in journalism, also said student reaction supported the resolution.

Other delegates had different reactions.

'Impeach Nixon' stickers sold

Three enterprising University of Montana students sold "Impeach Nixon" bumper stickers for 30 cents in the U.C. Mall yesterday afternoon.

David Irwin, junior in religious studies; Mike Darrah, graduate student in history, and Dan Hepner, sophomore in philosophy, sold about 140 of the black-and-white stickers in four hours.

Hepner said that they are selling the

On-campus delegate Mike McGinley, junior in business administration, said that "football is where the support is at."

Unorganized off-campus delegates Tom Stockburger, junior in education, Pat Madison, sophomore in general studies, and Larry Shore, junior in geology, and organized off-campus delegate Monte Beck, sophomore in psychology, said few students are in favor of a complete cut.

Shore said most students do not understand the whole problem. Most students want to keep the football program, he said, but do not favor an increased fee.

On-campus delegate Andrew Olcott, freshman in chemistry, unorganized off-campus delegate David Weingartner, sophomore in general studies, and organized off-campus delegate Calvin Wilson, senior in history-political science, said students they contacted wanted a budget compromise.

Olcott said some students would favor a $120,000 budget, providing the minor sports were fully funded.

At last week's meeting, UM Athletic Director Jack Swarthout presented his views on the proposed $161,137 budget for athletics. He said that if CB funding for athletics was kept to last year's level of $105,000 either football or the minor sports would have to be dropped.

David Irwin, unorganized off-campus delegate and sophomore in general studies, said student reaction to the football resolution was split. The general feeling is that athletics should get some support, he said, but the question is whether the support should go to major or minor sports.

stickers because they favor impeaching President Nixon and because they want to "make some money." But, he said, "We aren't making that much money off of them."

Darrah said they will use some of the profit from the sales to buy more of the stickers. He said the three do not belong to any organized group, but they hope their work will help start some type of movement.

Senate seeks budget clarification

By John McNamer
Montana Kaimin Reporter

An apparently unhappy Faculty Senate will seek clarification of several areas of the proposed 1973-74 University of Montana budget in a special session with UM President Robert Pantzer Thursday, according to chairman Keith McDuffie.

McDuffie told the Montana Kaimin yesterday that the special session had been requested by a majority vote of the Senate Executive Committee and that Pantzer had agreed to the request.

"We're seeking clarification about several items, and one would be the nature of the revised contracts for certain non-academic personnel, including some coaches and administrators," McDuffie said.

He said that it appeared that academic personnel (faculty) had received a base salary increase of five per cent, but that some non-academic personnel had received increases larger than that. He also singled out the law school faculty as a group that had received larger salary increases than the faculty as a whole.

A Kaimin review of salary increases as listed in the budget proposal to the Board of Regents revealed that while most faculty members and non-academic personnel are receiving a 5 per cent increase in salaries this year, a substantial number in both categories received increases greater than the 5 per cent base. (The Board of Regents will consider the budget proposal at its meeting May 21.)

About one-third of the faculty received increases from one to three per cent higher than the base, according to an April 23 memorandum by Academic Vice President Richard Landini.

In the two other categories listed in the budget, approximately one-third of the executive, administrative and professional personnel and one-fourth of the academic administrators and professionals received increases above the base.

Included in the latter two categories are the following personnel, with positions and percentage of increase received: Frederick Stetson, head swim coach, 28.8 per cent; William Betcher, asst. football coach, 8.2 per cent; Jim Brandenburg, asst. basketball coach, 12.4 per cent; Jesse Dove, UM personnel office director, 20.3 per cent; George (Jud) Heathcote, head basketball coach, 15.2 per cent; J. A. Parker, director of University facilities, 8.2 per cent, and Jack Swarthout, athletic director, 8.2 per cent.

McDuffie said that there was virtually no consultation with the Executive Committee of the Senate regarding the salaries of non-academic personnel.

"The President is certainly exercising his privilege in not consulting with the Executive Committee, but by setting up the 'Budget Crunch Committee' the faculty was led to believe that its counsel was seriously being sought," he said.

McDuffie continued, "Now we need our advising role clarified because at this point there is a serious morale problem among some faculty members who feel they were misled about the whole matter."

McDuffie said he does not know whether any concrete changes in the proposed budget will take place as a result of the special session. "I set it up as an information session," he said. "It would be up to President Pantzer to decide if he would want to act on any information he gets from the session."

"I hope that there will be a chance for the free exchange of information between the faculty and the president."

McDuffie said that the senate's main concern is not with their own salaries, but with what is happening to the academic programs, and with "the question of what area of the University is bearing the brunt of the belt-tightening."

"All the information we have indicates it is the academic personnel," he said.

He said Athletic Director Jack Swarthout had compared the athletic program to the academic program as though they were of equal importance in a Kaimin interview last week.

"Personally, I don't believe the athletic program is as important as the academic," McDuffie said.

He said he did not want to speculate about possible Senate actions in the future concerning its recently passed resolution recommending that state funding for intercollegiate athletics be cut off.

"I hope the administration hears the faculty views and acts on them," was his only comment.

McDuffie said that some faculty members were very upset with budget priorities. "They don't see

CB to get budget analysis

ASUM President Garry South said yesterday that he intends to submit a "complete and balanced" budget proposal to ASUM Central Board at its meeting May 15.

South said CB will meet on May 15, 17 and 18 to consider ASUM budgeting. The regular meeting May 16 has been cancelled because it is Aber Day.

He said ASUM presidents in the past have not submitted executive budget proposals. However, he said that he had promised in campaign statements to do so.

South said his budgeting system will "line-item every expenditure" made by the various groups getting money from ASUM, explaining that the system would provide a detailed breakdown of categories, and would direct how much money the group can spend in each category. In the past, according to South, groups have been given a "lump sum" of money to spend as they wish.

In addition, South said, his budget proposal will show how much money each group requested last year compared with how much money each was awarded.

South explained that under his budgeting system "people will be able to see that when they give money to one group, they are taking it away from another."

"The budgeting system CB has used in the past has been decidedly unprofessional," South said. "The only thing CB delegates were given to work with was a list of the budget requests made to ASUM."

South added he does not think the athletic budget should be considered until after his proposal is submitted.

South said he thinks that CB delegates have been misled in the past by considering the athletic budget first.

"We have 11 new delegates sitting on the board," South said. "They don't realize that every single group coming to us asking for money is coming with a sob story. When you listen to a sob story, the tendency is to give them the money they ask for. But we have to realize that an awful lot of groups come to us asking for money in the course of a year. If we give a lot of money to the first few groups, we'll be shutting out all the rest."

"It should be handled in the course of the budgeting just like everybody else. The athletic department does not deserve kid-glove treatment," South said.

Kaimin policy to be discussed

Publications Board, Montana Kaimin Editor Bill Owen and ASUM President Garry South will meet Friday with University of Montana President Robert Pantzer to discuss the policies of the Kaimin.

The meeting is in compliance with a letter Pantzer received from the Board of Regents concerning alleged obscene material published in the Kaimin. The letter requested that Pantzer meet with students responsible for publication of the paper.

In a telephone interview with the Kaimin yesterday, Pantzer said he did not know what would be brought up at the meeting but that he would carry out the obligation of the letter as best he could.

South said he thought the meeting was a waste of time. "There is not a damn thing that can be done anyway," he said.

Attorney General Robert Woodahl asked at an April 10 meeting of the Board of Regents that the regents meet with student editors to discuss Kaimin policies. Woodahl said he had received complaints about some Kaimin articles, particularly a book review entitled The Sex Surrogates, which was published last October.

The regents rejected Woodahl's suggestion, and instead sent a letter to Pantzer requesting that he meet with "those persons responsible for this publication."

South said that if Woodahl thinks there is obscene material in the Kaimin he should take it to court and get a definition of what is obscene.

South said he thought the meeting would be "a nice little chat" but that

Kaimin policy would not be changed.

Owen agreed that Kaimin policy would not change and said he thought calling the meeting was a face-saving measure to give Woodahl the impression that everyone was complying with his wishes.

"It's stupid to go through all this hassle because the attorney general put his foot in his mouth," Owen said.

Committee to hear Dean's testimony

Washington AP
Ousted White House Aide John Dean III will be subpoenaed and required to testify before the Senate Watergate committee on his reported claim that he can link President Nixon to the covering up the Watergate scandal.

Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., the committee chairman, said yesterday he will not decide whether to call the President to testify "until some reason to call the President is known to exist. So far I have no information the President was personally involved," he said.

The seven-member Senate committee voted yesterday to grant testimonial immunity to Dean and at least five others should they invoke their constitutional rights against self-incrimination at the Senate Watergate committee hearings.

Under this testimonial immunity, a witness cannot be prosecuted for what he admits. But it does not prevent prosecution on evidence gathered independently of his testimony. A federal judge issues the order compelling a witness to testify.

Maybe he'll fade away

The Indian occupation of Wounded Knee came to an end today after 70 days. The Indians just got tired of being ignored. When they took over the village, the front page of every daily newspaper and all of the news magazines had their eyes on Wounded Knee. Finally the government just started ignoring the Indians and the Indians did nothing and the press quit covering the event. Now a disarmament is in effect and, if it holds, Wounded Knee will be forgotten in a few months.

It would be fascinating if everyone who was ignored got tired of what they were doing and quit. Take for instance, if the American public and the press started ignoring Nixon and the defense department, maybe they would just stop bombing Cambodia and Laos.

One step closer to home — if the people and press just started ignoring Bingo Bob Woodahl, maybe he would just fade away and people would get the gambling they voted for. Anyone who wanted to could get an abortion and everyone would have the right to see a pornographic movie if they wanted. Montanans could then live in peace without having to put up with a super-egotist who thinks he has the power to invalidate laws passed by the United States Supreme Court.

This May 4 was quiet

May 4, 1973 went by without the slightest whimper of protest. For most of the other 365 days of the year this would not be unusual, but on May 4 for the past two years organized protests have occurred on many college campuses across the nation.

May 4 is the anniversary of Kent State. It's the anniversary of the deaths of four students involved in anti-war protests that the Ohio National Guard had been called in to control or stop.

Apparently May 4, 1973 was of little importance. Persons against killing and war must have joined the ranks of the pathetic apathetic because they sense that protesting has no effect on top-level government decisions. Or maybe the protesters, who in past years had marches, sit-ins, moratoriums and silent vigils, think that since a truce has been signed for the Vietnam "war," that the war in Indochina is over.

If so they have not been listening to or reading news reports of heavy bombing in Cambodia and Laos, of a pilot, who bailed out from an exploding plane, being flown to his base in Thailand for medical care, of renewed efforts to mend the mockery of a truce and of cancelled orders to remove mines from Hanoi-Haiphong harbors.

The war is not over but the protests seem to be. And they are over just when they are most needed. Protests are always useful to make more people aware of the tragedies of war. Protests are most necessary when the sham of a truce and the politically useful return of prisoners of war are offered to the American public as pacifiers or blindfolds. The public should not be so easily duped and it should let its elected officials know it.

Pat Murdo

Central Board will meet tonight in the University Center Montana Rooms, 360 series, to decide the fate of the athletic budget. We urge everyone to go to the meeting and voice their opinion. It is the students' money. They should have a say in the way CB spends it.

A taste of America 1974

Editor: I certainly hope people here are paying attention to the recent guerrilla action in Mexico or what might be America 1974. "Not possible," you say; I'm afraid it is. In that wonderful American tradition of getting there faster and better, our "traditional" government has succeeded in cutting ten years off of Mr. Orwells prediction.

Why maintain social welfare programs when you can increase "defense" spending, supply and train a larger more "sophisticated" military and then employ them to take care of any problems that arise in their own swift way. (i.e. Kent State vs. the National Guard, Wounded Knee vs. the federal marshals, and the recent fatal shooting involving the Missoula Police Department.

Why weren't we told how the President of Mexico handled the 1968 student demonstrations in Mexico City? Will our government some day resort to hiring snipers to control demonstrators as is the practice in Mexico?

During a recent university sponsored program in Mexico, I was able to see how the people related to their government. I asked a student friend of mine how the people can tolerate living in a military state and not show signs of resistance or regret about their fate. He told me of urban and rural guerrillas who were mounting counter-attacks but who were a very small percentage of the population. The majority of the people are content to sit back and let the government take care of things. "Even though this seems bad to you," he added, "many of the same conditions exist in the U.S. The difference is that we know of these conditions and know our government is corrupt, while you (Americans) aren't aware of them until it's too late."

When you read about the kidnapping in Time or News Week later this week, see if you can really be sure who were the bad guys.

Apathy party won

Editor: With the overwhelming lack of response to my and others' pleas for student input in the athletic issue, I've come to some conclusions:

- The Apathy party won the ASUM elections. (Translation: nobody gives a shit.)
- A very few people want to cut the athletic budget.
- Even fewer people support athletics at their present level.
- Unless I get some more response from the student body, I will vote "no" or abstain on everything regarding the athletic budget.
- I don't ever want to hear the phrase "athletic budget" again.

Don't let jocks win

Editor: Are you sick of wasting $14 dollars a year on the athletic department? Are you tired of bankrolling Coach Jack Swarthout and his cohorts? Isn't it time to give the coach a vote of "no confidence"? If your answer is, "Yes," then come to the Central Board meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the University Center Montana Rooms (on the third floor next to the Ballroom) and demonstrate your support of the move to cut Jack Swarthout's student funding to zilch.

Don't let the army of jocks Swarthout is mobilizing for tonight's meeting intimidate you or Central Board. Last year, the coach got $105,000, about three times as much as the Montana Kaimin or Program Council. This year the coach is demanding $161,000, an increase that approximately equals the entire allocations for the Kaimin and Program Council.

Remember, the meeting is at 7 p.m. Jack's jocks will be there. You should too. Even if you don't get work-study money to show up, it will pay you to do so. If the coach has his way, you will have to surrender 20 bucks to him next year.

Women getting screwed

Editor: Campus women are about to get screwed again. If Central Board votes to fund the Athletic Department, female students at this University will be paying a part of their money to the exclusively male intercollegiate sports program.

Until a phone call to the athletic department this morning, I thought surely women must be represented in some way in the athletic department; but I was told this morning that none of the department's funds are used for women's sports.

Two Central Board members have expressed their desire to hear the views of the students (male and female, I assume) on proposed funding. Talk to Matt Tennis or Leroy Berven or show up at the Central Board meeting, tonight, and make your views known.

Give him a chance at truth

Editor: The Environmental Studies program has the privilege of introducing to this campus one of Montana's most renowned despots this Wednesday.

Superintendent William Briggie of Glacier National Park will appear in the 1st floor auditorium of the Science Complex at 7:30 p.m. as one of a series of lecturers on environmental topics. That he should agree to appear publicly in the very center of anti-Briggie sentiment and criticism gives rise to the notion that perhaps he has come to make peace with the academic community, the press and the public, which he has so consistently disdained, maligned and ignored in the past. Having previously attempted to conceal the facts about his management activities in Glacier Park, perhaps he has decided to tell the truth. It would be foolish of him to tell anything other than the truth in a public lecture in Missoula.

Perhaps, too, Mr. Briggie will apologize for his careless handling of Glacier Park's resources, both human and natural. If representatives of the press are in attendance, perhaps he will avow that he no longer uses the local newspaper in place of regular toilet tissue, and maybe he will promise to never tell another lie. He might even ask them to "continue to give me hell when you think I'm wrong."

As difficult as it will be to accept the testimony of a confirmed liar, Superintendent Briggie deserves this chance to prove himself to be a man of integrity.

Stay the hell out

Editor: There is a country that is preparing for a forthcoming struggle with the United States of America. Geographically it is very close to America and culturally and socially it is even closer. But this country is getting pissed off at all those mucus-green dollars that flow across its land every day only to wind up in the slime-lined pockets of American businessmen like Rocky.

We are tired of getting ripped off. Yankees, you had better start seeking sanctuary in the bosom of your own heritage of Manifest Destiny and keep your crap out of our country. True, you did develop our natural resources, which you immediately shipped to your own country. True, socially, we are Americans and in many ways have prostituted ourselves to you. And what did you give us? Nuttin', buddy, nuttin'.

In a few years, you Americans will be in dire need of many of the natural resources of our country and a possible armed conflict may develop. You see, you Yankee bastards, we are becoming so much like you that we are going to be your supreme piss-off.

If you wish to move to our country, we welcome you if you contribute to the development of our country. It is greatly hoped that you would.

But if you want to come to our country and develop it and rape it and leave it as you have left Vietnam, Cambodia and any other country that has tasted the bitter almonds of your aid, then stay the hell home. Continue to screw the blacks, the browns, the reds and the yellows. But stay the hell out of CANADA.

AP in brief

An immediate cease-fire was ordered yesterday by the Lebanese president to end the savage fighting between the Lebanese army and Palestinian guerrillas. Air strikes were cancelled by the president after new fighting broke out Monday night. The fighting this week and last week grew from mounting tensions between guerrillas and the Lebanese army following an Israeli attack on guerrilla bases and the assassination of guerrilla leaders in Beirut last month.

An end to the 70-day siege of Wounded Knee was signaled yesterday by federal officials. They transported everyone from the village and said permanent residents would be allowed to return today after a thorough search for weapons and explosives. None of the leaders of AIM were in Wounded Knee to surrender yesterday, but Dennis Banks, who had slipped out of the village Sunday night, said that he had promised to surrender in Rapid City, S.D. later this week. The top government official at Wounded Knee estimated that the occupation cost the federal government about $5 million. A CBS television film crew was arrested and charged with aiding a civil disorder as they filmed the marshals and agents walking into Wounded Knee to secure the village. The television crew apparently slipped into the village overnight to be on the scene when the Indians surrendered to federal officials.

A federal judge ordered the government to make $6 billion in impounded water pollution control funds available to the states. Federal District Judge Oliver Gasch, in a suit brought by the city of New York, ordered the Environmental Protection Agency to make available to the states and cities the full amount appropriated under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972. The order means cities can apply for up to $5 billion in water pollution funds in 1973 and up to $6 billion in 1974. The government issued regulations last December making only $2 billion available during 1973 and $3 billion during 1974. President Nixon had ordered the pollution funds cut as part of his campaign to limit federal spending.

Countdowns start today to prepare for the Monday launching of Skylab, the nation's first space station. Skylab is a 118-foot craft packed with scientific instruments. Three men will live on board the orbiting laboratory for 28 days. The crew will be, Charles Conrad, Paul Weitz and Dr. Joseph Kerwin. They will rendezvous and dock with the un-manned Skylab seven hours after its launch, and then they will move into the space station the next day.

Kidnapers of U.S. Consul General Terrance Leonhard were given $80,000 to have him released. After the money was delivered in a paper bag in front of a downtown shoe store Leonhard was released Monday night in front of a bar near his home. The money was obtained through a loan from a local bank. The ransom demand came after the Mexican government met another demand to release 30 prisoners in Mexico and fly them to Cuba. The demand for the money and payoff plans came from the kidnapers in a letter to Mrs. Leonhard, the police said.

Northwest black studies phase-out is theme of Black Week, May 24-26

The phasing out of black studies programs in the Northwest states and what can be done to prevent it will be the theme of the 1973 "Black Week" at the University of Montana May 24-26.

Black Week is a three-day series of workshops, lectures and entertainment dealing with the concerns of black people in the Northwest, according to Robert McCullum, senior in sociology and chairman of the program.

Some of the workshop topics will be Black Studies in the Northwest, Black Students at Colleges and Universities in the Northwest, Black Communities in the Northeast, Communications of Black People in the Northwest and Black Politics in the Northwest.

Registration for Black Week will begin May 24. A soul-food dinner will be held in the Gold Oak Room of the University Center May 25 followed by a performance of the Black Arts West dance group in the Music Recital Hall.

A dance is scheduled for the UC Ballroom May 26 at 9 p.m. Cameo will provide the music.

Speakers will include Sam Kelly, director of minority affairs at the University of Washington at Seattle; Richard Clark, who was a prisoner in Attica prison in New York during that prison's riot, and U. J. Trahan, a representative of the Office of Economic opportunity.

Cambodian policy criticized

American bombing of Cambodia is the modern equivalent to Hitler's gas chambers, E. W. Pfeiffer said to an audience of about 100 in the Science Complex Monday.

Pfeiffer, professor of zoology and an environmentalist, referred to the alleged U.S. coverup of the Cambodian situation as "Nixon's Indochina Watergate." He said Cambodia, a country one third the size of Montana, is being subjected to 120 bomber raids each day — an intensity of bombing equal to that in North Vietnam last December.

Pfeiffer said the U.S. government told the American people a series of lies about the reason for bombing Cambodia.

First, U.S. attacks on well-marked Cambodian installations were portrayed as attacks on North Vietnamese gun positions, he said. He added that Nixon then ordered the 1970 invasion of Cambodia, saying it was necessary in order to protect withdrawal of American troops. Actually the invasion was to protect the Lon Nol regime that had recently overthrown Prince Sihanouk and which was largely made up of American-trained Cambodian mercenaries, he said.

Later Nixon said the invasion was in response to a request from Lon Nol. The latest reason for bombing Cambodia is that the North Vietnamese are violating the peace agreement by entering Cambodia, Pfeiffer said. He called this line of thinking typical Watergate mentality and said the so-called North Vietnamese are actually Cambodians.

Congress is scheduled to decide this week whether to fund more bombing of Cambodia. He said if Congress decides in favor of the funding, it will be interpreted as a blank check to continue warfare in Indochina.

Pfeiffer discussed the role of modern technology in the Indochina war. He said methods developed for productive peacetime use were used by the government for destruction in Indochina.

He said a herbicide called "agent orange" was sprayed on North Vietnam and Cambodia. Agent orange contains high amounts of dioxin, one of the most poisonous agents known to man, he said. Vietnamese women living in the sprayed areas have twice as many malformed babies as those living in nonsprayed areas, he added.

Air America, a Central Intelligence Agency airline, used agent orange in a defoliation program in Cambodia before the invasion of that country in 1970, he said. The CIA won't admit having done it but it was the only agency with the know-how and capability to have done it, Pfeiffer said.

He added that after Nixon banned the use of herbicides in Vietnam — partially as a result of public protest generated by a First Tuesday program featuring films Pfeiffer and his colleagues took in Indochina — about two and one-half million gallons of agent orange were brought back to the United States.

The government is now considering selling the herbicide to Brazil and other South American countries, Pfeiffer said. The decision will be made by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Pfeiffer said he is on the organizing committee of a group of independent scientists called Scientific Aid to Indochina. The group hopes to bring scientists from the three Vietnam factions to the United States to talk with American scientists about how to repair herbicide-caused damage to Indochina.

Words often misused: Avoid the use of "persue," when you mean merely "read." "Persue" means to read carefully and critically; to examine in detail.

Russian book sale? Nyet. A truck-load of Russian books and crafts scheduled to be displayed and sold in the University Center Monday and yesterday did not show up.

The books were en route to Missoula from the Kamkin Bookstore of Rockville, Md. on a Pacific Intermountain Express truck. Because of highway washouts caused by recent flooding of the Mississippi River, the truck was forced to take alternate routes on back roads, Kira Caiafa, Kamkin representative, told the Montana Kaimin yesterday.

Caiafa said the books will arrive here today and the sale will hopefully be reorganized for next Monday and Tuesday.

QUESTIONS by carrie hahn

Q: What positions are open to students in the Program Council offices, and how do you get in? C.R.

A: We get in by walking through the door; what did you have in mind? Alright, that's too flip for a Wednesday in May. Read on.

The new director, Bill Munoz, was appointed last week, so it is too late to apply for that job. Four Program Council area coordinators for the 1973-74 year are being chosen now. The deadline for applications was Friday, April 27 at 5:00 p.m.

After the four area coordinators are chosen (Performing Arts, Lectures, Popular Concerts, and Social-Recreation) applications will be accepted for committee members.

Interested people should drop by the ASUM offices for more information.

Q: Who selects the Mansfield Lecture series speakers? Can anyone make suggestions as to who they would like to see brought here? If so, who do we give these selections to? P.N.

A: There are several steps in the selection of a Mansfield Lecturer. There exists on campus a committee of four University professors who help in the selection of a lecturer. This committee, consisting of Henry Bugbee, professor of philosophy, Nathan Blumberg, professor of journalism, Mitsuru Nakamura, professor of microbiology, and Ellis Waldron, professor of political science, solicits suggestions for a speaker.

President Pantzer approves or discards the names on the list, and then forwards the names he approved to a national Mansfield Lecture committee. Each selection must ultimately be approved by Mike Mansfield himself.

ROTC deadline set

The deadline for submitting applications for the two-year Air Force ROTC allowance program is May 21.

The program includes a tax-free allowance of $100 per month for 10 months a year.

Additional information may be obtained by writing or visiting the Air Force ROTC office, Men's Gym 112, or calling 243-4011.

McDuffie questions priorities set in budget proposal

how priorities have been established and they disagree with some of them," he said.

"In a way we are also asking the President to predict where the University goes from here and where the priorities will be in the future," McDuffie said.

He continued, "The faculty expected the crunch so perhaps we have no right to be surprised at how hard it hit us — but we might ask whether everything possible was done to prepare for it."

"I think what we are doing is informing the President we are alarmed about the direction in which the University is going... and that we hope the faculty will be involved in the decision-making process."

McDuffie said all faculty members are invited to attend the Senate session with Pantzer which will be held in SC 131 at 3:10 p.m. Thursday.

'Obscenity' wins

CPS

A federal appeals court has been asked to reconsider its ruling that the University of Mississippi had no right to impound copies of the student literary magazine because they felt it indecent and obscene. Finding no obscenity, a three-judge panel has chastized the school and ruled that the words used in the magazine, Images, were used naturally and with thematic justification.

Rugby team wins

The University of Montana rugby team avenged an earlier loss and dropped one other match during last weekend's action in Calgary.

Sunday, the UM team shut out the Calgary Saints 15-0, avenging a 24-6 shellacking two weekends before. Skip Hegman topped the scoring in the contest with eight points on two tries. Ben Cohen added another try for four points, and Dave Taskila contributed three points to the winning effort on a kick.

Saturday, the team did not fare as well, losing 15-3 to the University of Calgary. Taskila kicked a field goal for UM's only score in the match which warmed them up for their impressive victory the following day.

The next games on the UM schedule are for May 19 and 20, in Invermere, British Columbia where the UM squad will compete in a small tournament.

Women's track team places second at conference meet

The University of Montana women's track team finished second in their conference meet last Friday at Dornblaser Field.

UM totalled 76 points for second place behind Flathead Valley Community College which amassed 168 points. Montana State University was third with 62 points, Western Montana College copped fourth with 58 points, Eastern Montana College gathered 54 points for fifth place, College of Great Falls garnered 40 points for sixth and Rocky Mountain College completed the field with seven points.

Nine new conference records were set and another one was tied at the 16-event meet.

UM's Mindy Sharp and FVCC's Sheila Kennedy set two new records apiece in winning two events each. Sharp ran the 440-yard dash in 57.6 shattering her own old record of 60.5 she set last year while running for FVCC. Sharp broke the 220-yard dash record with a 25.6 time. The old record was 26.5, set by Sue Bronson last year for FVCC.

Kennedy broke her own mile-run record with a 5:23.9 time. The record she set last year was 5:24.0. She set the 3,000 meter-run record with a 11:14.3 time. The event was run for the first time this year.

The FVCC relay teams broke their own old records in the 880-yard medley relay and the 440-yard relay. The new 880 time is 1:51.2 as compared with the old time of 1:52.6. The new 440 mark is 49.8, besting the old record by .2 seconds.

MSU's Rene Kesler set a new mark in the discus with a 140'-1/2" toss. She held the old record of 129'-2", set while competing for FVCC last year.

UM's Alice Brinkerhoff burned about six seconds off the 880-yard run record with a 2:19.8 clocking. FVCC's Gigi Brown held the old mark of 2:25.7 she set last year. Brown finished second in Friday's meet with a 2:26.6 time.

Pat Williamson, FVCC, broke the shot put record with a 41'-9 1/2" throw. Kesler set the old record last year with a 40'-8 1/2" mark. Kesler finished second in Friday's competition.

FVCC's Roberta Stetson's 100-yard dash record of 11.5 was tied Friday by teammate Mallory.

Other event winners were: FVCC's Sue Cornelius in the 200 meter hurdles with 29.5; EMC's Lynn Joncklowski in the high jump with 5'-
